While working on "One Michigan: Celebrating Many Traditions,"
I learned...

I learned that the french voagers came to Michigan on their boats. They helped tribes so much.
with a clay pot, it might melt. A blanket is warmer than a animal fur. The French Voagers helped alot!

I learned...

I learned that at French Village's dam
You ride around in boats threw a river. Also I learned if you hit rocks in the river and you move your boat it is called poraging.

While working on "One Michigan: Celebrating Many Traditions,"
I learned...

I thought about Michigan and drew the American and the Michigan Flags. We drew a picture and drew harder and it came up on the styrofoam
and we colored a whole piece of $\frac{1}{3}$ paper and covered the styrofoam with ink. We flipped it over and put it on a piece of paper that we colored.
We pressed it down and
It was done!

While working on "One Michigan: Celebrating Many Traditions,"
I learned...

I learned how to make better presses with ink, and I learned how to make better artwork. I never knew that French Voyager ships were so big and made 96% made of wood. The ships were loaded with mostly furs, but food and water were important too. These monster boats were meant to tear through powerful gigantic waves.

In school I learned about Michigan History. One of the things I learned about Michigan history in the old days are these houses. They are actually called wigwams. The men build the wigwams. What interesting about them is that there's only one room and a hole at the top of the wigwams are for the smoke. Well that is all I have to say. Sincerely,

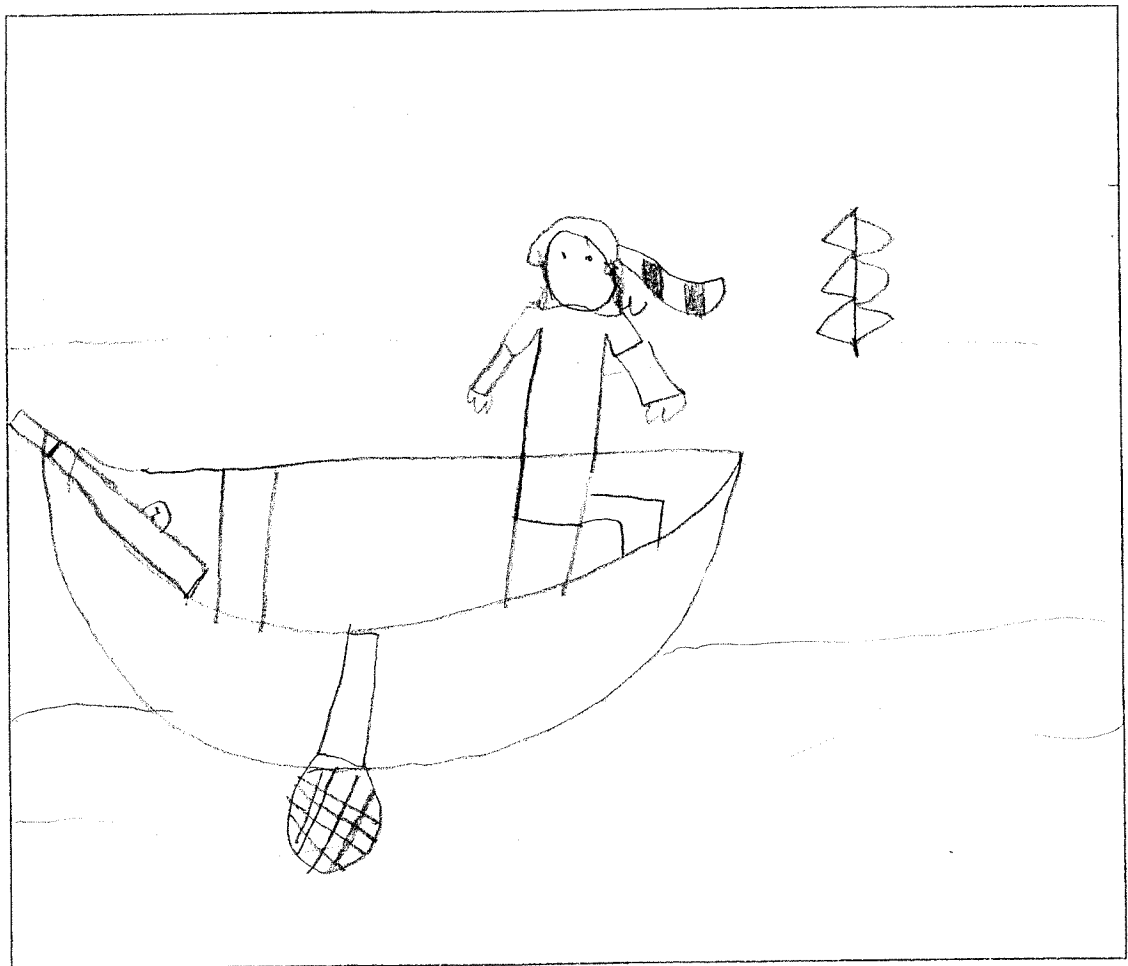

Mystique
